FARM AND GARDEN

MODEL ICEHOUSE.

Designed With Reference to Convenience and Saving Labor.

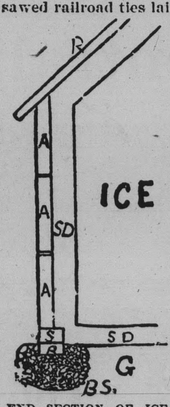
While ice is generally spoken of as a luxury among farmers it is rapidly becoming regarded in another light. There is not only comfort in it for the farmer and his family, but economy in the keeping of farm products, besides which, with the increasing demand for ice, some money may be made by selling it to others. The house here described can be built for a moderate sum, and the man who devised it had in view points not always considered. He is thus quoted in Ohio Farmer:

CONVENIENT ICEHOUSE.

The convenience of the house built for the storing of ice for a family supply is of as great importance as its ability to keep the ice from melting. The time of storing occupies but a day or two and that at a time of the year when the farmer is not busy, but during the hot months when ice is in daily use the farmer is a busy man. The chores ought to be few and quickly done. The filling of the refrigerator and the placing of ice for the dairy from the average icehouse is a daily task that is laborious. In view of these facts I put off building an icehouse until I was satisfied that I could build one which I could enter without closing the door, loosen the ice desired and carry it out, all without having to uncover the remaining ice each time and still have it keep well.

My house is built as follows: It is 16 by 20 feet and 8 feet high to the square. The rafters are 15 feet long, making a roof with a very steep pitch. The house is built with three walls, making two spaces, the inner one to be filled with dry sawdust and the outer for the circulation of air. The inner space is one foot wide and is continued up the rafters to within three feet of the comb, while the outer space is six inches and is continued on the ends up to the comb. This leaves an opening of but 3 by 13 feet on each side of the roof, which is not lined with sawdust. Close up at the top of each gable is a 2 by 2 window for ventilation. The door is 3 by 5½ feet, is in the gable and is 6 inches thick, divided into three air spaces and is nearly airtight when closed.

The foundation was made by using sawed railroad ties laid on short blocks imbedded in the ground. On them is spiked a 2 by 6 inch piece to which the middle partition was nailed at the bottom, using four stringers around the building of the same size and two extra ones on the ends. Used 1 by 12 inch for inside studding, setting about two inches on the sill, leaving about ten inch space open for the sawdust to go down to the ground. This leaves all space open to the highest point that sawdust is filled to, so that when it settles more sawdust can be put in.



END SECTION OF ICEHOUSE.

[A, air space; SD, sawdust; R, roof; S, sill; B, foundation block; BS, broken stone.]

Outside of the building a ditch was dug as deep as the foundation and entirely around it, filled with fine broken stone and covered with earth for drainage.

The ice is stored on about one foot of sawdust and about three inches between the ice and the walls and four inches on top of the ice.

Destroying Insects In Winter.

Many of our most destructive insects pass the winter either among matted prostrate grass, among fallen leaves or especially along osage hedges, lanes and fence corners. Wherever such places can be burned over in late fall, winter or early spring the effect will be to destroy many of these. Instead of having the annual clearing up in May, as many do who clear up their premises at all, this should be done during the seasons above mentioned, as by May many of the destructive insects have left their winter quarters and are beyond reach.

In the orchard the falling of the leaves will reveal cocoons and even insects themselves upon the trees that cannot be easily detected while the foliage is still hanging to these trees. Many insects pass the winter within a folded leaf that is attached to the twig to prevent it from dropping off and in this way deceive the eye of the orchardist. It will pay to go over the orchard and remove all of the cocoons and dried leaves still clinging to the trees.

THE LESSON OF SORROW.

This is the tale of what sorrow did—
Did a king of old—
For a king who lived as a king may live
In a palace ablaze with gold.
"Now, I have joy and life," said he,
"And all things in their scope.
Ho! Tell me, men of wisdom great,
What need have I of hope?

"What need have I of hope?" cried he,
"Of hope for future things?
Have I not all that gold can give,
That gold can give to kings?"
The wise men reasoned with the king
In voices sage and dim,
But naught could show, and none could tell
Why hope should come to him.

Yet sorrow came in her somber garb,
All habited in woe;
She taught the king a mighty truth
That all men come to know.
She taught the king a lesson sore—
A lesson grave and grand—
For smiling hope, with gentle clasp,
Held sorrow by the hand.

This is the tale of what sorrow did—
Did for the king of old—
The king who lived as a king may live,
All panoplied in gold.
"Ah, men of wisdom!" cried the king,
"Your teachings were in vain,
For I have learned when sorrow comes
Then hope comes in her train."

—Josh Wink in Baltimore American.

THE WOMAN IN BLACK

Who Did Not Relish Growing Old.

BY HAMILTON ORMSBEE.

It was a gala night at the Amphion academy. The Marasquin English Opera company was to open the season there in "Faust." Marasquin never had sung and never could sing in any language but Italian, but his Mephistopheles was a great impersonation, and his company was more nearly English than are most of those which sing under that appellation. Mitchell, the tenor, was a Nantucket Yankee; Neuman, the baritone, was born in Oshkosh, where his father owned a brewery; the contralto's English had a Gaelic twist to it; Alice Titus, Mitchell's wife, who had sung Marguerite to his Faust for 15 years, was a Vermont girl, and Miss Evans, the girl who was to succeed the old favorite, came from Texarcana and had courage, beauty and a voice. Hers was the only new face. The others were established favorites, and Brooklyn had turned out to do them honor.

There were women without bonnets and wearing diamonds in two of the boxes. Half a dozen Brooklyn men were in evening dress, and in the body of the house were knots of New Yorkers, who had come over to give their friends an auspicious start on their new season.

Near the front sat a woman in a black gown with a little black hat, plain as a pikestaff, but jaunty as a cock partridge in the spring. Her black hair was freely touched with gray, and she was well past 40, but she was not old. Her face bore the unmistakable stamp of achievement, and she looked a mature woman of fine health in the full ripeness and keenness of intellectual power. She bore herself easily and indifferently, as one accustomed to crowds. A little quickening of interest and a long and sweeping use of her glass as the curtain rose showed that she had come for the opera rather than for any social purpose.

The performance went quietly until the vision of Marguerite was shown. Scores of glasses were leveled at this picture, a sigh of admiration swept over the house and then a hearty round of applause in recognition of the beauty of the new singer. The woman in black turned to the younger woman who had accompanied her: "She has good points, but she doesn't make up well. Her mouth"—

Just behind them a young girl, attending her first opera, exclaimed to her escort: "She is perfectly lovely! How can a girl look so much like an angel!"

The escort looked down with admiration into the flushed face and sparkling eyes. He was 30 and in evening dress.

"It's a fine chance for me to pay a compliment, Nellie," he murmured, "but I don't think I will. She is certainly pretty, but I'm afraid she will not make good the loss of Alice Titus. Alice is an old stager from further back than I can remember, and she positively had to stop singing last winter. Three or four women have tried to fill her place, but have failed. Perhaps this girl may do better. Old Alice could sing, though."

The nostrils of the woman in black quivered, but the young man was too pleasantly absorbed to observe it. It was Nellie's first opera, and he felt obliged to dispel her illusions as far as possible. That is one of the ways in which we take our revenge on youth. When Faust threw aside his student's cloak, appearing as a tall, dashing, handsome youth, the escort leaned over Nellie and whispered, "He doesn't look as if he was the husband of a woman of 50, does he?"

The woman in black did not hear that.

The garden scene came, and the new Marguerite trembled as she drew her spinning wheel in front of her to begin.

"There was a king of Thule." Her voice was a little uncertain, and she hesitated occasionally. Indeed her singing was more like that of the real Marguerite than of an operatic prima donna. But the voice was fresh and true, and there was in it a touch of that something which we call charm and which won her audience. The applause was so hearty that the girl blushed through her "make up" with pleasure. The woman in black sank back and sighed, "She is so young, so blessedly, gloriously young."

The woman had recovered her critical attitude by the time the jewel song was reached. Her glass followed every movement and her acute ear judged every intonation. While the house was applauding enthusiastically she whispered to her companion, "She is a nice girl, and she tries, but she can't sing that, and I don't believe she ever will. Do you hear her trill wabble? She missed two notes in one of her runs. It should have gone like this," and in brilliant, pearly little tones almost under her breath the speaker ran through one of the passages in which Marguerite vents her delight.

Soft as it was, the young man behind her heard the run. He looked at the singer's face and started. He glanced from the face to the gray hair and back again. He tried to remember all the things he had been saying, and blushed deeply.

Presently Faust was singing his love. The woman in black leaned forward, her lips parted, her fingers unconsciously marking the time; then, as the tenor's fervor increased and his tone grew clearer and more vibrant, a flush overspread her face. As he ceased she beat her gloved hands together as loudly as she could.

A sympathetic look stole into the young man's eyes, and while the woman in black was wholly occupied with the stage he whispered softly to Nellie: "That woman in front of us is Alice Titus. She is Mitchell's wife, and she has been blushing with pleasure at his singing. They sang lovers together for years, and the company called them the turtledoves."

Nellie awoke from her dream. She glanced from the woman to the tenor and exclaimed incredulously and louder than she knew: "She can't be Faust's wife. Why, she is gray!"

The lips of the woman in black tightened, and the young man regretted his indiscretion. He tried to atone for it in the church scene by praising the dramatic way Alice Titus had played that, but he knew that the singer understood the situation, and the words stuck in his throat.

Meanwhile the success of the performance and of the new singer grew. Before the end was reached the members of the company had congratulated Miss Evans heartily upon her triumph. The last traces of the girl's nervousness disappeared. She walked as on clouds, and in the final trio she poured forth such a flood of voice as she had never known that she possessed. The audience was stirred quite out of the habit of putting on wraps during the last scene. It sat delighted and called out the singers after the final curtain had fallen. The men called "Brava!" loudly, and the recall became an ovation. Alice Titus' companion leaned forward, waved her handkerchief, cried "Brava!" and did what she could to stimulate the excitement. Somebody cried: "Evans! Evans!" and Marasquin led forward the trembling but happy Marguerite.

Then the audience began to go out, but the woman in black sat still. Her lips were white, and when her companion rose she did not move. The other woman averted her face and busied herself with her wrap. At last the passage to the stage door was cleared, and the woman in black rose heavily and walked slowly toward it.

She found Faust, still in his stage clothes, outside his dressing room. The woman in black passed in without a word. Faust dismissed his dresser, entered and closed the door. His wife was leaning on the back of a chair, sobbing. He raised her to his arms, saying softly: "There, darling, don't take it so desperately. Think of all the drudgery you escape by being out of the harness."

She still cried, nestling on his shoulder. Presently she raised her face, kissed him and said: "You're wonderfully good to me, Fred, but even your tenderness cannot disguise the fact that I am gray. I was told of it tonight by a chit of a girl with pink cheeks."

The man's face flushed with anger, and his wife hastened to add: "She did not mean any harm, dear, and she did not think I could hear. She was surprised into speaking too loudly when I was pointed out to her as your wife. She could not believe it, and I must say," with a rueful glance into the large dressing mirror, "that I can't blame her."

"Nonsense, dear! Of course it was only the make up."

"Oh, I know all about that, and I know I could look 20 on the stage tomorrow. But for all that I would do every bit of my hard work over again for the youth of that little chit behind me. Time is more cruel to women than eternity can ever be."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The First Elevator.

Elevators are by no means the recent inventions generally supposed. An amusing account of what was probably the first attempt at an elevator is told by St. Simon, and, according to him, it was from a M. Villayer that the idea of a "flying chair" first emanated. This ingenious person set up a passable prototype of the modern elevator in his house in Paris, working it up and down between the walls.

The daughter of Louis XIV was so delighted with the novelty that she had one put up in her own apartments at Versailles. This honor was, however, the undoing of poor M. Villayer's machine. The chair suddenly stopped moving while the princess was between two landings, and she had to remain blocked up for three hours until the workmen broke a hole through the thick wall. The king was so annoyed at this that he forbade any further experiments in the same line.

Much Overrated.

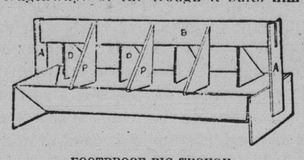
"That city man that was visiting me is overrated," remarked the farmer.

"How so?"

"Oh, the papers all said he was a great hand at watering stock, but I found he couldn't work the pump five minutes without laming his arm."—Chicago Post.

A Notion In Pig Troughs.

It is as natural for a pig to put his feet in the slop trough as to put his nose there, and if he can get his body lengthways of the trough it suits him just as well to stand with both fore and hind feet in the trough. An Ohio Farmer correspondent has figured out the following contrivance for circumventing this little trick; the cut explains the construction:



FOOTPROOF PIG TROUGH.

These troughs should not be made more than 10 or 12 feet long. If made longer, they are inconvenient to handle or move about. The lumber used should be durable, 1¼ inches thick for one side of the trough and 8 inches wide; for the other, 7 inches; the same width and thickness will do for the end pieces. The trough is V shaped. To each end nail an upright piece (A) and let it extend above the trough at least a foot. In the upper end of this upright cut a slot an inch wide and 6 inches deep. Into this fit a six inch fencing plank (B). This will be over the center of the trough, lengthwise, and six inches from the top of the trough. The partitions (P) on each side of the trough should be about nine inches apart.

One trouble will be noted in regard to this trough. It is not so convenient to fill with feed or slop as an open one.

Native Forage Plants For Alkali Soils.

A. Nelson of Wyoming classifies the forage areas of that state in three divisions—mountain, hill and plain. The two former areas, being well drained, are reasonably free from alkali. The latter area is divided into normal plains and alkali plains. The native plants of the alkali plains are found to have a greater or less value for forage. The salt sages are found to be the most suitable for the Wyoming lands. Winter fat (related to the salt sages), Indian millet, slender wheat grass and alkali meadow grass are found on the alkali plains and are of value as forage. Tuber bulrush is found in alkali marshes and is much relished by cattle.

Farmers Can Finish a Few Steers.

Though there appears to be no such demand for cattle by big feeders as there was a year ago, National Stockman thinks it likely that the small feeders, and especially those who handle only a few head, will finish more cattle than for several years. Farmers can now pick up a few steers near home—something they could not do a few years ago—at reasonable figures. A great many farmers will feed a few head of cattle raised by themselves or bought in the community rather than haul their grain to market and let their fodder go to waste.

One Thing and Another.

Not an acre of western prairie land that has been transformed into forest should ever be allowed to revert. The cottonwood and box elder should yield only to the locust, ash, walnut and oak, for valuable timber should be the ultimate aim of every western planter.

Hogs in the northwest are generally very free from disease. This is attributed to methods of feeding and great variety of food material, which includes wheat, oats, barley, peas, alfalfa and clover as well as corn.

An Iowa horticulturist finds that trees which suffer most from root killing are those on clean soils and on exposed dry knolls with northern aspects. To obviate root killing he recommends cover crops, preferably mammoth red clover or hairy vetch, the use of congenial and hardy stocks for grafts and, on soil well drained, deep planting.

According to the latest reports, Kansas now has 11,005,000 apple trees.

Collapse.

Caused by overwork? No, caused by undernourishment. Work rarely causes collapse. It is worry—the outcome of a low condition of the nervous system and inadequate nutrition which generally causes collapse. The collapse seems sudden, but in reality it is a slow process. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased, the nourishment in the food eaten is only partially extracted and imperfectly assimilated. The blood becomes impure; the very fount of life is poisoned, and some day all the faculties and functions go on a strike. That's collapse. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies the blood and builds up the weak body with sound healthy flesh.

"I was cured of a very bad case of indigestion, associated with torpid liver, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. G. B. Bird, of Byrnside, Putnam Co., W. Va. "Before I began the use of Golden Medical Discovery' I had no appetite; could not sleep, nor work but very little, bowels constipated, and life was a misery to me. After taking four bottles I felt so well that I went to work, but soon got worse, so I used it about eight weeks longer, when I was permanently cured."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper covered book, or 31 stamps for cloth, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

BOARD OF TRADE FOR SONOMA VALLEY.

Now that the Southern Pacific Company is issuing colonist tickets from Eastern points to California for from $30 to $25, the proposed organization of a Board of Trade in this valley is a most timely move on the part of its citizens. Thousands of home-seekers will be attracted hither by this latest effort on the part of the Southern Pacific Company to populate the towns and valleys on its lines of railway in this State. These home-seekers, who will come here to escape the rigorous climate of the States on the other side of the Rocky Mountains, are for the most part well-to-do people. They do not come here seeking a business location, but are in search of a nice little farm or home in some one of the lovely spots with which this State abounds.

In times past, owing to the efforts of the enterprising people of Los Angeles, Pasadena, Redlands and other Southern California cities and towns, these home seekers have been induced to locate there, and behold the result! Small towns have developed into cities and a desert waste has been converted into a veritable garden of Eden. This shows what enterprise and push will do.

Heretofore Northern California, and particularly that part embraced in the Sonoma Valley, has allowed these golden opportunities for settlement in its midst to slip out of its grasp to be picked up by its more enterprising brethern of the South. The result is that that section of California has made a marvelous growth in wealth and population the past ten years.

One of the most potent factors in the development of the Aladdin-like land of the South has been the Southern Pacific Company on the one hand, who brought the intended home-seekers there, and the local Boards of Trade who got hold of them and kept them there. This, in a measure, is the secret of the development of that section.

When it comes to the develpment of California the railroads always play an important part, but they cannot do it all. There must be some assistance from the people along the line of these railways. This assistance cannot come in any better shape than the organization of local Boards of Trade in every city, town and hamlet that desires to keep up with the times and become rich and prosperous.

Therefore we say, let Sonoma Valley have a Board of Trade composed of its most public spirited and substantial citizens. Sonoma Valley has a climate unsurpassed for its sunny skies, balmy breezes and healthfulness, and for beauty and picturesqueness it is unexcelled by that of any other section of California. The soil is rich and produces almost everything under the sun that grows. Therefore we say, that with all these gifts of nature all that Sonoma Valley is now lacking to secure its share of these home-seekers which are now finding their way into this State by the thousands over the Southern Pacific road is a wide-awake go-ahead Board of Trade.

WE are in receipt of propositions, every now and then, from oil well companies in the Southern part of the State to float their stock in this valley. For the most part these companies are offering all the way from 25c to 50c for every dollar's worth of stock disposed of. Now no oil company ought to pay any such commission, but lots of them are doing so. Of course all such are wild cat schemes incorporated to fleece the unwary. If you put your money into them you will surely be robbed. Beware of them.

THE OBSERVER.

Robert Emmet., the Irish Patriot.

At the celebration in San Francisco of the 123rd anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet, Rev. William Gleason of St. Anthony's parish, East Berkeley, was the orator. He spoke with great eloquence and deeply stirred his audience:

"We meet to-night," said Father Gleason, "to commemorate the memory of that great Irish patriot, Robert Emmet, who forfeited his life in behalf of Irish independence. His memory is as revered to day as it was in the past. Did he not give to the cause all that any man could give? He gave his time, his talent and his life. What more could any man give? He was a patriot. It is the same spirit of patriotism that is nerving the arms of the Boers and compelling England to scour her colonies to get men to put down 30,000 liberty loving people. It is sad to say, however, that our kith and kin are under the flag of England fighting against these Boer patriots. England has never been the friend of Ireland, and the hand from which the scepter has just fallen signed forty acts of corecion. In her reign over a million people died of starvation, and the Irish landlord harpies were assisted by the military in forcing 3,000,000 people from their homes out on the roadside.

"There are 18,000,000 Irish people scattered over the world. It is in their hands to bring England to terms and secure the independence of their country. Let them keep up the great nationalist movement and pass resolutions that no Irishman shall enter the British army; that no Irishman shall buy English goods. Then John Bull will make up."

Thomas W. Hickey read Emmet's stirring speech. The audience unanimously passed the following resolutions:

"Whereas, The reign of the late Queen Victoria was marked by the most cruel outrages against human liberty and human civilization, weaker nations being robbed of their freedom and independence, butchered and oppressed on a scale unparalleled in history, millions of subjects being allowed to starve and rot like beasts in the jungles of India; and whereas, that reign was marked especially in Ireland by ruthless persecution, by the denial of the fundamental rights of man, by the wholesale eviction of an honest peasantry by an alien and corrupt landlordism backed up by the might of the soldiery of the Queen, by the official and uninterrupted robbery in over-taxation, by the enforced emigration of the people of Ireland, by the hounding to the prison and the scaffold of the noblest and most gifted sons of Erin who dared, like Emmet, aspire after freedom, 1,250,000 dying during the reign of starvation, 4,500,000 being forced to flee to a foreign land, forty coercion acts being passed, all bearing the signature of the Queen, thus marking her reign as the darkest and most tyrannical in English history, unworthy of the admiration of any free people; and whereas, the official expression of sympathy and condolence which marked the death of Victoria were a tribute, not to Victoria the woman, but to Victoria the Queen and representative of that Government; be it

"Resolved, That as lovers of liberty and haters of tyranny and oppression, and in sympathy with every people rightly struggling to be free, we condemn those official expressions of flunkeyism in free American cities. That especially do we condemn the action of those officials in San Francisco responsible for the half-masting of the American flag on our public buildings and public schools, to the disgust of the majority of our citizens. That we commend the action of Mayor Van Wyck of New York, who dared face the torrent of Anglomania abuse and who had no sympathy to waste on an empire which is inimical to free republican institutions. That our sympathy goes out to the noble Boer women who have suffered and fought side by side with their husbands, as the woman of historic Limerick, and who have been made homeless, childless and husbandless by the soldiery of Victoria and her son."

A Sonoma Novel.

Among a number of new books soon to be issued by the old-established publishing house of the Henry Altemus Company, Philadelphia, is one that will have a special interest for Californians. "The Nine Swords of Morales," by George Homer Meyer, is a romance of old Spanish days in California, the scene of the story being laid in Sonoma county, at the time when Gen. M. G. Vallejo was Military Governor of Northern California.

With this romantic and picturesque setting a story of unusual interest may well be expected. the more so that Mr. Meyer, who for a dozen years past has been well known among the newspaper fraternity of San Francisco, has already published a number of very clever short sketches, all showing literary ability of a high order. At present Mr. Meyer is a member of the San Francisco Bulletin's editorial staff.

George Homer Meyer passed the greater part of his boyhood in Sonoma county and while here absorbed the spirit of the old times of Spanish rule and thoroughly studied the romantic history of the place. In "The Nine Swords of Morales" he is understood to have made the most of the picturesque material so secured, and the publication of his story will be awaited with interest.—Bulletin.

The Kaiser Buys California Brandy.

Walden & Co. of Geyserville have closed a contract with S. Gneitz, agent of the German Government, for the immediate shipment of 300 barrels of California brandy. The German Government has been experimenting for years to find a brandy suitable for its army and navy. It might, but will not, use French brandy. Spanish and Italian brandies have not proved acceptable, and so some time ago German distillers tried to produce a brandy from dried California grapes. The distillate from these dried grapes was made from German potato spirit, but still the results were not satisfactory. Finally, the Government tried the brandy made here and the upshot of these tests has been the placing of the order referred to.

ONE of our exchanges laments the dearth of news thus: News! News!! News!!! It's enough to give a man the blues—nobody married, nobody dead, nobody broken an arm or head. No one sent up for taking a horn, nobody buried and nobody born. Oh for a racket, a riot, a tear; somebody to give somebody a scare. Somebody thumped within an inch of his life; someone run off with somebody's wife; someone to come in and pay up his dues; anything, anything, just so it's news.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

Mrs. Fred. D. Spaulding received a dispatch from her husband Monday from the Needles, Nevada, stating that he was en route to San Francisco. Mr. Spaulding has been absent in the Silver State for several weeks looking after some very valuable gold mines which he recently acquired in that State. Mrs. Spaulding left for her city home Tuesday.

A few errors crept into the report published in these columns a few weeks ago showing the receipts and expenditures of the committee having charge of the collection of funds for defraying the funeral expenses of the late Louis Enfeld. The report shows Mrs. Marti contributed $5 but the types made it read 50 cents. A few more minor errors also occurred. We make this correction out of justice to Messrs. Nufer. Quartaroli and Modini who collected $82 and expended the same as follows: G. W. Clark, undertaker's bill, $45; J. Linehan, digging grave, $5; Rev. Father Leahy, services, $5; Dr. Rich, professional services, $7; L. Quartaroli, hotel bill, $15; INDEX-TRIBUNE, printing and posting funeral notices, etc., $2.50; G. Dotti, services, $1.50; L. DIVISION OF SONOMA TOWNSHIP.

A Foolish Protest from Sonoma.

The proposition to divide Sonoma Township so as to give Glen Ellen a Justice of the Peace and Constable, came up for discussion before the Board of Supervisors last Thursday afternoon.

A petition, signed by almost every resident of Glen Ellen and Kenwood, asking for the division was read by Chief Deputy Clerk Nagle.

An individual protest from George Breitenbach of this place was also read.

Theodore Wagner, Joshua Chauvet, Chas. J. Poppe, Jas. W. Gibson and others spoke in favor of the division, stating that for the preservation of law and order in that part of the valley during the picnic season it was essential that Glen Ellen have its Justices' Court and Constable as well as other communities.

The matter was taken under advisement.

COL. ATWOOD'S DEATH CONFIRMED.

Passes Away at Yellow Springs, Ohio.

The reported death of Col. Robt. B. Atwood at Yellow Springs, Ohio, on November 17th. last, has been confirmed.

Col. Atwood came to this place about twelve years ago from Kentucky. He was a gentleman of the old school and during his residence here everybody was his friend, particularly the children. He belonged to a very prominent Kentucky family and was a retired business man. A little over a year ago he left this place for Yellow Springs, Greene county, Ohio, where he entered the Soldier's Home to spend his declining years.

Col. Atwood was a man of fine principles and a true and staunch friend. Requiescat in pace.

An "Esteemed Ex-Contemporary" Foreclosed.

E. E. Thompson, ex proprietor of the defunct Sonoma News and one of our many 'esteemed ex-contemporaries,' has been foreclosed in the Superior Court of this county. On Monday last H. D. Loveland of San Francisco obtained judgment in Judge Burnett's department against Mr. Thompson in the sum of $1908 20, together with costs of suit and attorney's fees amounting to the further sum of $119 73. The INDEX-TRIBUNE is still doing business at the old stand.

HEALTHY

HAIR

A man with a thin head of hair is a marked man. But the big bald spot is not the kind of a mark most men like.

Too many men in their twenties are bald. This is absurd and all unnecessary. Healthy hair shows man's strength. To build up the hair from the roots, to prevent and to cure baldness, use—

AYER'S Hair Vigor

It always restores color to faded or gray hair. Notice that word, "always." And it cures dandruff.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

"My business calls me out among strangers a great deal. I would actually feel ashamed every time I would take off my hat, my hair was so thin and the bald spots showed so plainly. I began the use of your Hair Vigor less than three months ago. Today I find I have as fine a head of hair as I ever had. I tell everybody what I used, and they say 'it must be a wonderful remedy.'" GEO. YEARL, Dec. 14, 1898. Chicago, Ill.

We have a book on The Hair and Scalp which we will send free upon request. If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor about it. Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

CITY TRUSTEES.

New City Hall Proposition Discussed--Bills Paid--Other Matters.

The semi-monthly meetings of the Board of City Trustees are now a thing of the past and hereafter under the revised ordinances the meetings will be held on the first Wednesday of each month.

At the meeting held last Wednesday evening a full Board was present as follows: President Duhring and Trustees Ciucci, Davis, Harris and Hotz.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved the following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

F. Harrison, electric light, $51; D. A. Fussell, hauling gravel, $42; Jas. H. Albertson, salary, $15; J. N. Stademan, hauling gravel, $36.00; L. Maffai, hauling gravel, $21.00; L. Green, lumber, $1.18; Joe. B. Small, binding, $2.00. Total $168.18.

Clerk Small reported that Rev. Mr. Trudgen had made application for a burial plot in Mountain Cemetery. On motion of Trustee Harris which received a second from Trustee Hotz the matter was referred to the Cemetery Committee with full power to act in the matter.

On motion of Trustee Ciucci, seconded by Trustee Davis, the Clerk was instructed to procure a book for the purpose of keeping a record of all burial plots sold or selected in Mountain Cemetery.

The question of building a new City Hall then came up for discussion. It was the sense of the Board that steps should immediately be taken to secure plans and specifications for a building suitable for all city purposes and with that end in view President Duhring and Trustee Davis were appointed a committee to secure such plans and specifications.

The Board then adjourned.

Prompt Payment.

The loss suffered by Dr. and Mrs. Walliser on the occasion of the destruction of their beautiful home on Broadway by the fire demon, on Tuesday morning of last week, has been somewhat compensated by the prompt payment of the partial insurance on the property by the Firemans' Fund Insurance Company and the Hartford Fire Insurance Company. These payments were made to the assured inside of a week after the destruction of their home. Dr. Walliser is particularly grateful to Mr. E. P. Farnsworth, adjuster for the Firemans' Fund, for the many courtesies extended to him pending the settlement of the insurance claim. He also is under obligations to Mr. D. H. Twing, the local representative of the companies above mentioned.

Superior Court Notes

There was considerable activity in legal circles on Monday and in both departments of the Superior Court the calendar contained a number of interesting cases. In Judge Dougherty's department the calendar was as follows:

The will of Eliza Ann Likens was admitted to probate and J. L. Likens was appointed executor.

The final account was settled and distribution was ordered of the estate of Cornelius Regan. A similar order was made in the estate of Elizabeth A. R. Goforth.

The matter of the compromise of a claim against the estate of Samuel T. Szarvash was taken under advisement.

A sale of real property of the estate of Mary J. Beaver was ordered. A bond of $4,500 will be given.

These probate matters were continued: Estates of Daisy Kidd, minor, Gustaf de Bruyne, W. D. Worden, Edith Wiley, minor, P. McGrael and Jacob G. Mayer all to March 11th; estate of Edward Surryhne to March 6th

In Judge Burnett's department the arraignment of C. F. Hetzel, charged with illegal fishing at Guerneville, was continued to March 11th.

In the action of H. D. Loveland against E. E. Thompson judgment was given for the plaintiff in the sum of $1,908.20, attorneys' fees $100, costs $19 75. Ira C. Jenks was appointed Commissioner in a bond of $1,000.

Five days were allowed to amend the complaint in the action of Shaver vs. Armstrong.

Default was entered in the divorce suit of Ford and the matter was referred to the Court Commissioner for the taking of testimony.

Default was entered in the action of Beardin vs. Beardin. The trial will take place on March 12th.

The demurrer in the action of M. McCann vs. Ellen Graham and others was overruled.

Matters in the estate of Isaac G. Wickersham were continued to March 7th and 8th.

The action for divorce of Dennis H. Kearney against Annie Kearney was continued to March 11th.

He Got Twenty Days.

John Kelley, a roaming hobo, arrived in town on Friday afternoon of last week on "shank's mare" and proceeded to take in the town by the cocktail route, and in a short time his booze developed into the real thing. He became noisy and profane and entering a saloon started a "rough house" and fell into the clutches of Constable Ohm, who placed him under arrest and charged him with disturbing the peace. Kelley was then hauled up before Judge Cheney and given twenty days in the County Jail. He was taken to Santa Rosa last Saturday morning to serve out his sentence.

CALIFORNIA PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Resolutions of the Members of the Mardi Gras Excursion to New Orleans.

The members of the California Press Association who enjoyed its thirteenth annual excursion which took place February 10th to 24th, 1901, and carried the excursion party from San Francisco to New Orleans and return, over more than five thousand miles of railway travel on the Sunset route, feeling that those who extended to the association courtesy and kindness should be assured of their appreciation and gratitude for such favors, appointed J. F. Thompson of the Humboldt Standard; S. S. Boynton of the Oroville Register and F. W. Richardson of the San Bernardino Times-Index, to draft resolutions expressing the sentiments of the party. This committee reported the following, which was unanimously adopted:

The Southern Pacific Company, through its manager, Julius Krutschnitt, W. H. Mills, Superintendent of the Land Department, and H. H. Mayo, General Advertising Agent, planned the itinerary of the excursion, and through the officers and employees of the company, did all in their power to make the journey both pleasant and profitable. At many points on the route we were reminded that the General Manager had instructed all officers to see that we should lack nothing to make the excursion enjoyable. The uniform courtesy of the company and its officers will not be forgotten by the members who made up the party, which passed over the longest and finest winter excursion route in the world.

J. P. Meehan, Superintendent of the Pullman Car Company at San Francisco, extended to the association many courtesies. His instructions to those in charge of our sleepers secured for us the best of service and attention.

The Maricopa, Phoenix and Salt River Railroad Company extended to the excursion party a trip from Maricopa to Phoenix, which was an interesting part of the journey.

The citizens of Phoenix, through the Board of Trade and members of the Press of that city, gave us a royal welcome. During the stay in that lovely city we were shown every kindness by Governor Murphy and the members of the Territorial Legislature, who with the leading citizens, met with us at the banquet table, and under guidance of ex-Governor McCord, Chairman of the Reception Committee, bade us welcome.

The officers of the Santa Fe Railway Company tendered us the use of a special train for an excursion up the beautiful Salt River valley, and we regret that the briefness of our stay rendered it impossible for us to accept the generous offer.

We are under obligations to Ewer & Sink of St. Helena, for a liberal supply of wines and Samuels' soda; to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and Paul W. Moore of Redlands, for several boxes of fine oranges and lemons; to George Roeding of Fresno, for choice boxes of caprified California dried figs; to the American Type Foundry of San Francisco, through its Superintendent, Geo. L. Alexander, for candy for the ladies and cigars for the gentlemen of the party.

The Chamber of Commerce of the City of Galveston, through its Secretary, Mr. McMasters, placed at our disposal a steamer for a trip around the harbor to view the jetties, the lighthouse and the great ruin caused by the cataclysm which overwhelmed that beautiful city on September 8th, 1900, and we were glad to note the great strides made in rebuilding.

The Press Association, the business Men's Association and the Traction Company of San Antonio, granted us the freedom of the city and gave us an excursion to all points of interest, including the famous Alamo, in the largest and most progressive city in Texas.

The members of the Progressive Union of New Orleans kindly placed at our disposal their rooms, which were used as our headquarters while in that grand city. The Hon. Paul Capdeville, Mayor of the city, and the Chamber of Commerce of the Crescent City, placed us under obligations for many favors. Through the instructions of the General Manager of the Southern Pacific Company, the magnificent steamer Whitney was placed at our disposal for a trip on the Mississippi river and participation in the naval demonstration in honor of the King of the Carnival. Our stay in the city was made pleasant by these attentions and the universal kindness of Mr. Mayo.

THEREFORE, be it resolved; That we, the members of the California Press Association, numbering 81 persons, who were the recipients of the courtesies above enumerated, do hereby express our appreciation of all favors thus generously bestowed and that we tender to the railway company, its officers and all persons who have ministered to our comfort and to our happiness on this excursion our heartfelt thanks and assure them, each and all, that their favors will not be forgotten by the press of California, which is, in great measures, indebted to them for the most pleasant and profitable excursion this body has ever taken.

Adopted February 23rd, 1901.

W. D. PENNYCOOK, Chairman.

Attest: RALEIGH BARCAR, Secretary.

Appealed from Justice Cheney's Court.

On Thursday a suit on appeal from Justice of the Peace Cheney's Court was commenced in the Superior Court of this county, in which J. W. Larramore is plaintiff and Cotton, Bell & Co. are defendants. The action is to recover $250 commission alleged to have been earned by the plaintiffs on a sale of some real estate in this township. The lower court gave judgment for plaintiff, hence the appeal.

FARM CONVENIENCES.

An Excellent Tool For Cutting Tile. The Same Sort of a Slush Scraper.

I will say that I am the inventor of a tool for cutting tile that is superior in every respect to any tool I have ever seen used, and that is a tile hammer, a drawing of which I send herewith. I have used these hammers for years, and the shape and size here given (six inches long) are about the best proportion for the purpose. They should be made of the best steel and both poll and pick tempered the same as stonecutters' chisels. The pick is beveled like a cold chisel. The poll is round and the shape of the base of a cone and one inch in diameter; the shaft round and cylindrical. The poll should be ground square, or better, a little concave, leaving sharp cutting edges, and should be a little more flaring on the handle side. With this tool I have never found any need of anything else.

Some get tile at the mills with holes cut in them, but I never do, for with a tile hammer it is less trouble to cut the holes wherever you want them. In connecting laterals most persons cut a hole or get tile with holes in them and stick the end of the connecting tile into the hole, but I never do that nor allow it to be done on work under my supervision. The connecting tile (2 in the cut) must be cut to fit against the tile connected to on an angle (see 2 and 3). The hole should be cut the full size of the inside of 2, which will be an egg shape, the small end up stream. I also cut the tile on all curves to fit as close as other joints (see 4).

A soft tile is not the best tile to cut, and I promptly discard a cracked tile. Select well burned tile that will ring when struck with a hammer. Cut holes near the middle of the tile. In cutting the connecting tile, 2, leave a part of the end full, as shown, instead of cutting it to a thin edge. Except in picking a small hole through a tile to start with the poll of the hammer is generally used. The edges should be kept sharp. No patent on this hammer, free to all, writes a correspondent to Ohio Farmer, wherein another writer tells of an equally practical tool, a slush scraper, as follows:

Where a farmer has a large ditch running through his farm a slush scraper is indispensable. This one is made from two inch plank, sides five feet long, with one end patterned for the scraper and tapered to make suitable handles, as shown in cut. The scraper box should be four feet wide, two feet from front to rear of box, and one foot in depth. These dimensions will move almost a half yard of mud at each load, and a team will pull it easily.

The top and bottom of scraper should be banded with tire iron, which will make it more rigid and wear better. Any blacksmith can make the blade out of an old drag saw blade or suitable piece of flat steel. This should be bolted and riveted to the box and band irons of box and made quite sharp to cut well. The eyelets shown in illustration near the blade are to fasten a log chain into.

With this scraper one can clean the slush out of a large ditch and work the team on bank. The length of chain can be regulated to suit the depth of ditch. We used a scraper similar to this last autumn on our farm and found it excellent to clean out slush and also to dress off overhanging banks.

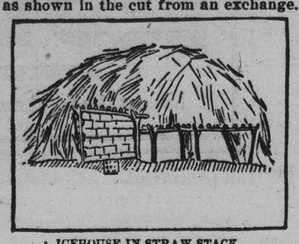
The Apple Situation.

The apple situation has undergone a distinct change since the disastrous gale in the first half of September. Up to that time it was everywhere conceded that the American apple crop would probably prove the greatest on record, even surpassing that of four years ago. But the exceedingly high winds, a modified form of the West Indian hurricane on the gulf coast, swept a devastating path many miles wide from Texas up and through the Missouri valley and eastward across the lake region and northern states and maritime provinces, disappearing in the Atlantic ocean. The damage to orchards in the commercial apple belt was uneven but pronounced. Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, New York, New England and Nova Scotia all report heavy losses, and in some sections half the winter fruit was blown from the trees. Fortunately that part of the crop remaining may show excellent growth and development under favorable weather conditions the next two or three weeks, making up in part for the loss indicated. It is too early to fully measure the damage.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Straw Covered Icehouse.

Where the straw stack is a farm feature an icehouse, inexpensive, but effective, can easily be combined with it, as shown in the cut from an exchange.



ICEHOUSE IN STRAW STACK.

A cheap, rough framework suffices, and the boarding up need not be tight. The floor should be level and drained from meltage water by a trench filled in partly with stone. Outside drainage to carry all surface water away from the stack is also necessary. Entrance is through a long passage arranged with airlocks to prevent currents of air.

Shrinkage of Corn In the Crib.

In a western experiment to test the shrinking of ear corn, a crib holding 7,000 pounds of husked corn was built upon a pair of scales and weekly weighings made during one year. For three months, October to January, the loss in weight was 9 per cent; from January to April, 5 4-7 per cent; April to July, 3 1-7 per cent; July to October, 2 5-7 per cent; total loss for the year, a fraction over 20 per cent.

RIGHT UP TO DATE.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)

These are days of records and of the beating of records. Benson's Porous Plaster, for quickness of action and thoroughness of cure, has no records to beat except its own.

Benson's Plaster, always the best, always the leader, is to-day better than ever. It sticks to the skin but never sticks in its tracks. It marches on.

The people not only want to be cured but cured quickly—and Benson's Plaster does it. Coughs, colds, lumbago, asthma, bronchitis, liver and kidney complaints, and other ills approachable by an external remedy, yield to Benson's as ice does to heat.

Neither Belladonna, Strengthening or Capsicum plasters are to be compared with Benson's. People who have once tested the merits of Benson's Plaster have no use for any other external remedy.

More than 5,000 physicians and druggists (and a thousand times as-many non-professional persons) have called Benson's Plasters one of the few (!) home remedies that can be trusted.

Fifty-five highest awards have been made to it in competition with the best known plasters of Europe and America. Better proof of its merits is inconceivable. Be sure to get the genuine.

For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States, on receipt of 25c. each.

An Honest Medicine for La Grippe.

George W. Waitt, of South Gardiner, Me., says: "I have had the worst Cough, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vendar. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only thing that has done any good, whatever. I have used one bottle of it and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by F. Duhring. *

At Bed Time

I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion is better. My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a gentle laxative. It is made from herbs, and is prepared as easily as tea. It is called Lane's Medicine. All druggists sell it at 25cts and 50cts. Lane's family medicine moves the bowels each day. If you cannot get it send for a free sample. Address, Orator F. Woodward, Le Roy, N. Y.

A Good Cough Medicine for Children.

"I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlains's Cough Remedy," says F. P. Moran, a well known and popular baker, of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold by F. Duhring. *

MARKET GARDENING.

Profit In Growing Celery With a Mulch and Irrigation.

One of my main money crops is celery. This I grow by a method very similar to the one which has been called the "newest celery culture," says W. H. Jenkins in Farm and Fireside. The celery was planted on very rich ground in rows, with alternate spaces between them of 12 and 18 inches. After the celery had grown a few inches high a mulch of manure was placed in the 18 inch space, and the blanching boards were set up when the celery was about one foot high, so that the rows that were 12 inches apart were between the boards, thus boarding two rows together, but keeping the boards apart, so they would not cover the plants until they had grown above the boards, which were about 18 inches wide. The field of celery was irrigated by pouring the water on the mulch of manure between the rows with the hose. The plants on a part of the field have grown more than three feet high, and some of them with roots on weighed eight pounds.

I grow the White Plume and Golden Self Blanching by this method, and the large, well balanced bunches sell very readily for 50 to 60 cents a dozen. My salesman, who goes on the road for me, tells me that there is no competition on such goods, and the price is not questioned. Because of lack of help to do the work a small portion of the field was not mulched and irrigated, and, the season being very dry, the celery made so small a growth that it was hardly marketable at any price. The only difference in the culture was in the mulching and irrigation. This cost about $35 an acre, and by expending this additional amount a field of celery was made to pay a good profit that would not have paid the expense of growing without the mulching and irrigation.

Cauliflowers I have always found in good demand and at remunerative prices. The market is not generally overstocked because few people undertake to grow them for market, thinking their culture is too difficult. I have found nothing very difficult in their culture. I give them almost the same treatment as cabbages, except when the plants are about half grown I place a mulch of manure between the rows and then irrigate them in the same way as the celery, and this generally insures the crop. If a drought should come when the plants are heading, the crop would be uncertain, but the mulching and irrigation prevent their suffering for lack of moisture at this time and make the crop a profitable one.

A Labor Lightener.

Barrels of apples or potatoes are unhandy things to carry, but with a device like that shown in the cut, from The Farm Journal, they can be moved with ease. Three-eighths inch round iron is bent by a blacksmith into the form shown. Two men can thus carry full barrels of fruit or vegetables with ease and safety. If the iron, being small, cuts the hand, it can be wrapped with a piece of cloth where the hand comes.

News and Notes.

The California Cured Fruit association has secured control of all the unsold prunes in the state and is thus in position to fix rates. This also insures the shipment of only the best grades to the east.

The immense wine crop of France has brought prices very far down. Such abundance has not been known for half a century. But some growers attribute the extraordinary excess in part to the mixing of heavy Spanish wines with the wines of France. Much of the so called French wine used abroad is said to be of this sort.

Results secured in a number of experiments in different parts of the country are quite uniform in showing the good effects of early plowing for fall wheat.

It appears that, while many of the cases of sickness in stock which are attributed to eating moldy corn are due to other causes, the continued use of such food may result in intestinal and nervous disorders of a serious nature.

The litchi, or leechee, nut is a native of China. It is chiefly eaten in this country by the Chinese population, although it possesses an agreeable flavor and is becoming more generally known.

Deforesting operations on a huge scale are noted by The New England Homestead as an impending peril to that section. Especially in New Hampshire are towns in the lumber regions becoming depopulated.

A Few Pointers.

The recen statistics of the number of deaths show that the large majority die of consumption. This disease may commence with an apparently harmless cough which can be cured instantly by Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, which is guaranteed to cure and relieve all cases. Price 25c and 50c. For sale by all druggists.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

"Is God's Good Blessing"

"I feel that God has blessed Dr. Acker with special knowledge to prepare that grand medicine called Acker's English Remedy for Throat and Lung Troubles. It saves children every time when they are attacked by croup. Every mother should know about it, and I will tell about my experience. I had a darling boy of four years to die with croup. My doctor did all he could, but the child could not be made to vomit. That was before I knew of Acker's English Remedy. After I did hear of it, I got a bottle. When our little eighteen-months-old girl was stricken with croup, I gave her this medicine, and inside of twenty minutes she vomited and was better right away. During the winter she had croup four times, and it brought her through each time all right. I, myself, had bronchitis pretty bad and Acker's English Remedy cured me completely. Before I close, I want to tell you of my neighbor's boy, named Jobe Nana. He had bronchitis, too. He got worse all the time. My husband went over to his house and told him about my case. Then his mother went to town, got a 50-cent bottle of Acker's English Remedy, and he took it. He came over to our house a few days later and said he was all right, and also said two doses relieved him from the start. You can understand by my letter why I think so much of Acker's English Remedy. I repeat that God's blessing must surely have been bestowed upon Dr. Acker."
